

Nexus 5001™ Membership Form and Agreement

Please complete and submit an original signed copy of this Membership Form and Agreement along with the appropriate membership fee to the IEEE-ISTO. Membership rights and privileges will commence upon confirmation from the IEEE-ISTO that the agreement and payment in full have been received. The Nexus5001™ Forum fiscal year is January 1 through December 31. New Members joining before July 1 shall pay the full annual fee for that year; new members joining on or after July 1 shall pay half of the full annual fee.

1. Membership Level (select one):

- Silicon Member (USD $6,000): The Nexus 5001™ Forum defines a silicon vendor as any company that manufactures silicon components and/or markets CPU intellectual property, microprocessor architectures and/or CPU solutions based in silicon to other companies to be incorporated in end user applications. This would include companies that manufacture CPU based solutions in silicon in a "foundry" based business model. The Steering Committee of the Nexus 5001™ Forum shall serve as the final arbiter of whether, at the time of joining the Forum, a company is a silicon vendor. Silicon Members have full participation rights in the Forum's committees and entitlement to a seat on the Forum's Steering Committee.
- Non-Silicon Member (USD $2,500): Companies and organizations which do not meet the criteria of a Silicon Member shall be considered Non-Silicon members. Non-Silicon Members have full participation rights in the Forum's committees and entitlement to a seat on the Forum's Steering Committee.
- Affiliate Member (USD $1,000): Reserved for companies that are considered affiliates of Silicon or Non-Silicon Members of the Forum, but who wish to participate as an independent entity in the Forum. Affiliate Members have full participation rights in the Forum's committees and a non-voting seat on the Forum's Steering Committee.
- Associate Member (USD $250): Reserved for individuals from government organization who wish to participate in the Forum's technical committees. Associated members must obtain sponsorship from a Silicon or Non-Silicon member in good standing to be considered for membership.
- Educational Affiliate Member (No Fee): Reserved for individuals from educational institutions who wish to participate in the Forum's technical committees. These participants must be approved by the Steering Committee or sponsored by a Silicon or Non-silicon member in good standing to be considered for membership. Primary contact must be a professor or paid employee from the institution.

In order to facilitate sponsorship, please provide a brief statement (one page or less) to accompany this agreement that details prior or planned work with Nexus technology or more generally with on-chip instrumentation related development.

2. Methods of Payment ( Not applicable for Educational Affiliate):

Check: Please make your check payable to the IEEE Industry Standards and Technology Organization (IEEE-ISTO), drawn on a US bank.

Upon completion of the Membership Form and Agreement, by signing below and participating in the Nexus5001™ Forum's activities, the applicant (and additional company contacts) signify acknowledgement and acceptance of the Nexus 5001™ Forum's v1.2 approved Bylaws. Membership in the Nexus 5001™ Forum is contingent upon continued adherence to the then-current version of the bylaws document. Membership in the Forum does not imply that goods or services provided by a member are compliant to IEEEISTO 5001™ standards, or any forthcoming releases of the specification. Each member may provide to the Forum, c/o the IEEE-ISTO, a web-ready logo, proper use and notice requirements, and company URL for marketing purposes as deemed mutually appropriate. Materials shall be sent to nexus-admin@nexus5001.org. The Nexus 5001™ Forum (and/or the IEEE-ISTO) shall be generally authorized to utilize the logo in marketing materials, trade show representation, publications and the Forum's website.
